A Student Journal of Philosophy

Editor:	Michael Durham
Editorial Staff:	David Barber	Jared Sorenson
	Rebecca Buchert	Nick Zukin
	David Moody

Aporia is published once yearly by the Department of Philosophy at Brigham Young University and is dedicated to recognizing exemplary philosophical work at the undergraduate level. Each year, the winning essays of the annual David H. Yarn Philosophical Essay Competition (open to BYU undergraduates) are published along with other outstanding undergraduate philosophical essays. The winners of the Yarn Competition are selected by a faculty committee independent of the student editors and staff.

The Aporia staff is especially grateful to those who support and make possible this journal. Special thanks go to Professor K. Codell Carter, chair of the Department of Philosophy, for his encouragement and assistance, and to Linda Hunter Adams of the Humanities Publications Center. Aporia is funded by a generous contribution from the David H. Yarn Endowment. Those wishing to contribute to this fund may do so by contacting the BYU Department of Philosophy.

Submission Information

Submissions for the next issue of Aporia should be the original, unpublished work of an undergraduate author and may address any philosophical topic. Submissions should conform to the MLA style and should be no longer than 5,000 words. Please include with each submission the following: three paper copies, a computer copy on disk, and a separate sheet stating the author's name, address, phone number, e-mail address, undergraduate affiliation, and the title of the submission. The author's name should not appear anywhere in the body of the manuscript. Multiple submissions are accepted.

Submissions and inquiries should be sent to
