Aporia is published twice yearly by the Department of Philosophy at Brigham Young University and is dedicated to recognizing exemplary philosophical work at the undergraduate level. The spring issue includes the winning essays of the annual David H. Yarn Philosophical Essay Competition, which is open to BYU undergraduates only, along with other outstanding philosophical essays submitted by undergraduate philosophy students from around the world. The winners of the Yarn Competition are selected by a faculty committee independent of the Aporia staff, who make all other publishing decisions. The fall issue is published online and consists of essays selected by the Aporia staff. Submissions are welcome from all undergraduate students, both at BYU and elsewhere.

The Aporia staff is especially grateful to those whose support makes this journal possible. Special thanks go to Dr. David Jensen, our faculty advisor, and to Dr. Daniel Graham, chair of the Department of Philosophy. Aporia is funded by a generous contribution from the David H. Yarn Endowment. Those wishing to contribute to this fund may do so by contacting the BYU Department of Philosophy.

Opinions expressed in Aporia are those of the respective authors and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the Aporia staff, the Department of Philosophy, or Brigham Young University and its sponsor, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.
